November 10, 1896.

Hon. Richard Olney,
Secretary of State,
Washington, D. C.

Sir:-

We have the honor to enclose the application of Mr. Ernesto Giuseppe Fabbri for a passport.

Mr. Fabbri was born in New York March 26, 1874. His father, Ernesto Giuseppe Fabbri, was a native of Italy but was not a citizen of the United States; his mother Sarah Randall Fabbri, was a native and a citizen of this country.

Mr. Fabbri left the United States in April 1884, and attended school in England three years, spending his winters and summers after the year 1887 in Florence, Italy, and in traveling. After the death of his father in September 1890, Mr. Fabbri returned to the United States and proceedings were taken whereby he became the adopted son of his uncle, Egiusto Paulo Fabbri, who was a native of Italy but a naturalized citizen of the United States. Mr. Fabbri returned to Italy in December 1890, spending the following winters until 1894 in Italy pursuing his studies.

In April 1894, Mr. Fabbri was required by the Italian Government to perform military service for one year, upon the ground that he was an Italian citizen.

Mr. Fabbri and his adopted father and family protested to the military authorities against the required service, upon the ground that he was a citizen of the United States and owed no military duty to the Italian Government. Mr. Fabbri claimed that his nativity made him a citizen of the United States, that he had elected to be such, that he had always regarded himself as being a citizen of the United States, and that it was his intention ultimately to take up his residence there, and that he would not do military duty for any other government. He was then threatened with arrest by the Italian Government in case he did not perform the required duty. Upon assurance being given that no further demands should be made upon him by the government, and to avoid arrest and quiet the apprehensions of his family, he entered the Italian army and performed service from April 1894 to the first of April 1895. At the time of entering the Italian army Mr. Fabbri took no oath of allegiance to that country, but did swear that while in the service of the government he would perform his duties faithfully as a soldier and according to the rules and regulations prescribed by the authorities. In April 1895, at the expiration of his one year's service Mr. Fabbri left the army and in May he went to England where he subsequently met his family and with them returned to Italy at the end of September 1895.

The Italian Government, claiming that there had been an error in the time when his military service should have begun and that he had served one year prior to the time when he should have served under the law, sought to compel another year's service on the part of Mr. Fabbri, whereupon he left the country, having refused to enter the service, and has not since returned. Mr. Fabbri returned to this country in the early part of this year and was on the 20th of October married to Miss Edith Shepard, a native of the United States.

-3-

Awaiting advices from you in respect to the within application, we have the honor to remain,

Yours respectfully,

Milton Tracy Jennings & Russell

Mr. Branagan:

The applicant,
under our law, is a citizen of the United States, by birth, and as such, is entitled to a passport.

It is understood that, by Italian law, he is a subject of Italy, by reason of parentage. W.C.H.
